

PROJECT MUSE®

Contributors to this Issue

Appalachian Heritage, Volume 36, Number 3, Summer 2008, pp.
120-123 (Article)

Published by The University of North Carolina Press

DOI: <https://doi.org/10.1353/aph.0.0068>

➔ For additional information about this article

<https://muse.jhu.edu/article/250447>

CONTRIBUTORS TO THIS ISSUE

GLEND A BAILEY-MERSHON grew up in Greenville County, South Carolina, at the foot of the Blue Ridge Mountains. Her family roots on both sides lie in the Western North Carolina Mountains. She is the author of sa-co-ni-ge: blue smoke: poems from the Southern Appalachians as well as The History of the American Woman's Movement: A Study Guide. She is a retired academic administrator, now living in St. Augustine, Florida.

CHAD BERRY is Director of the Berea College Appalachian Center and Goode Professor of Appalachian Studies. He served as the 2006-2007 president of the Appalachian Studies Association. He is the author of Southern Migrants, Northern Exiles (2000) and the editor of The Hayloft Gang: The Story of the National Barn Dance (2008).

ANCELLA R. BICKLEY is a retired professor of English and Vice President for Academic Affairs at West Virginia State College. The author of Memphis Tennessee Garrison, published by the Ohio University Press, she currently lives in Florida.

GLORIA BURGESS grew up in Northern Mississippi and works as an organizational consultant and inspirational speaker. She is the author of Dare to Wear Your Soul on the Outside, forthcoming from Jossey-Bass/Wiley, and currently lives in Edmonds, Washington.

WARREN J. CARSON chairs the English Department at the University of South Carolina Upstate in Spartanburg and serves as the Assistant Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. He lives in his hometown, Tryon, North Carolina, in the shadow of Hogback Mountain. His work has appeared in African-American Review, Southern Literary Journal, and other venues.

doris davenport grew up in Cornelia, Georgia, in the Appalachian foothills. She has taught and performed nationwide and currently is an Associate Professor of English at Albany State University in her home state. She has published book reviews, articles, essays, and six books of poetry, including madness like morning glories (LSU Press, 2005) and a hunger for moonlight (self-published, 2006).

ELIZABETH ENGELHARDT grew up in Hendersonville, North Carolina, and currently serves as an Associate Professor in the Department of American Studies and the Center for Women's and Gender Studies at the University of Texas at Austin. Engelhardt is the author of The Tangled Roots of Feminism, Environmentalism, and Appalachian Literature and the editor of Beyond Hill and Hollow: Original Readings in Appalachian Women's Studies.

CARL FLEISCHAUER has worked at the Library of Congress for thirty years, first with the American Folklife Center, then launching the American Memory program, and today contributing to digital preservation efforts. He is the co-author of Documenting America, 1935-43, and several CDs and videos. Before working at the Library, he worked for West Virginia University.

VIRGINIA C. FOWLER is the Director of the Literature, Language and Culture Department at Virginia Tech. Her specialty is African-American Literature, particularly that by women writers, and she is widely credited with not only helping to launch Tech's Women's Studies Program but also recruiting Nikki Giovanni to teach there. She is working on her third biographical book on Giovanni.

HENRY LOUIS GATES, JR. grew up in Piedmont, West Virginia, and one of his several books is a best-selling memoir about that experience, Colored People. He currently serves Harvard University as Director of the W. E. B. Du Bois Institute for African and African-American Research.

CRYSTAL GOOD is the mother of three sons. She lives in Charleston, West Virginia, near her hometown of St. Albans. She is a proud member of the Affrilachian Poets and "works for justice for all" as the Assistant Director of the West Virginia non-profit, Covenant House.

ALENA HAIRSTON spent some of her formative years in Logan, West Virginia. Her poetry book, The Logan Topographies, was published by Persea Books in New York. It won the inaugural Lexi Rudnitsky Memorial Prize, and an earlier version of the manuscript won the top fellowship from the Rhode Island State Council on the Arts. She now lives in Oakland, California, and is an English professor at Solano College.

WILBURN HAYDEN grew up in Winston-Salem in Appalachian Forsyth County, North Carolina, and has taught social work at three Appalachian universities. He currently is Director and Professor of the School of Social Work, York University in Toronto. He is a former President of the Appalachian Studies Association.

bell hooks, a Kentucky native, is Distinguished Professor in Residence at Berea College. She is the author of over thirty books. For the last few years her work has focused on issues of social class, race and gender. Her works include Happy to Be Nappy, a children's picture book.

EMILY JONES HUDSON grew up in Hazard, Kentucky, and moved back a dozen years ago. She works for Appalachian Regional Healthcare and is the founder and pastor of CommonBond Christian Fellowship Ministries.

GLENNIS REDMOND was raised in Greenville, South Carolina, and various Air Force bases but has lived as an adult primarily in Asheville, North Carolina. She works as a performance poet and is currently involved in creating a Writer-in-Residence Program at the Carl Sandburg Home Site in Henderson County, North Carolina. Her new book Under the Sun will be released in August 2008 by Main Street Rag.

JAMES "SPARKY" RUCKER is a folksinger/folklorist/historian who is proficient in African-American and Euro-American history and folk culture. He has toured for over forty years and has produced more than a dozen recordings and videos. He was born in Knoxville, Tennessee, and now resides in nearby Maryville.

KATHARINE CAPSHAW SMITH, an Associate Professor of English at the University of Connecticut, is author of Children's Literature of the Harlem Renaissance. At present she is co-editing the poetry and political writing of Bessie Woodson Yancey.

EFFIE WALLER SMITH (1879–1960) was born to former slaves in the rural mountain community of Chloe Creek in Pike County, Kentucky. She published poems in Harper's and other magazines and authored three books of poetry: Songs Of the Months (1904), Rhymes From the Cumberland (1904), and Rosemary and Pansies (1909).

BIANCA SPRIGGS is an Affrilachian Poet who will be joining the faculty at Transylvania University in her home town of Lexington, Kentucky, in the fall.

CAROLYN SUNDY grew up in Lynch, Kentucky, and currently teaches at Southeast Community College in nearby Cumberland. Her weekly newspaper column is entitled Always Sundy.

WILLIAM H. TURNER grew up in Lynch, Kentucky, and has served as Interim President of Kentucky State University and a vice president at the University of Kentucky. He is co-author of Blacks in Appalachia and currently serves as the NEH Chair in Appalachian Studies at Berea College.

FRANK X WALKER is the editor of PLUCK! The Journal of Affrilachian Arts & Culture and currently serves as Lecturer of English and Artist in Residence at Northern Kentucky University. He is the author of four collections of poetry and the co-founder of the Affrilachian Poets.

CRYSTAL WILKINSON grew up on Indian Creek in Casey County, Kentucky. She is the author of Blackberries, Blackberries and Water Street and currently teaches at Morehead State University where she serves as Writer in Residence.